WHY CHOOSE TIMBER?

A Natural Choice for Generations
For centuries, timber has been the material of choice for the world's finest homes. Combining natural beauty with exceptional strength, a handcrafted timber entrance door offers character, warmth and authenticity that simply cannot be replicated.
Every piece of timber has its own unique grain and texture, ensuring no two doors are ever exactly the same. The result is an entrance that is truly individual and designed to stand the test of time.

Naturally Sustainable
Timber is one of the most environmentally responsible building materials available. Timber is a naturally renewable resource that stores carbon throughout its lifetime, helping to reduce its environmental impact compared with many alternative materials.
At Sean Doyle Windows, we responsibly source our timber from environmentally accountable suppliers, ensuring every timber door is crafted with sustainability in mind.

Built for Irish Homes
Our timber doors combine traditional joinery with modern engineering to withstand the demands of the Irish climate. Manufactured in our Irish workshop by skilled craftsmen, every door is built for outstanding durability, security and thermal performance.

Timeless Beauty
Unlike trends that come and go, timber never dates. Whether painted in a contemporary colour or finished to showcase the natural timber grain, a timber entrance door adds lasting elegance and value to your home.
